We proudly present . . .

■ Individuals, activities, athletics and academics of Donald E. Gavit Junior-Senior High School brought accreditation, graduation and construction in 1963-64, its fourth year of existence, its first with all six grades.

Accreditation came to GHS April 10 after a gruelling week of inspection by the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges in December. The school also received a first class commission from Indiana state department of education for grades seven-twelve.

Graduation of the first seniors was accomplished through baccalaureate June 8, commencement June 10.

Construction began in November on three sites: on the west with 15 classrooms; on the east with JH and HS shops; and in the center back with auditorium and special rooms. Additional facilities opened this year were a football field, balcony basketball bleachers and baseball bleachers.

Individuals brought laurels to GHS. Activities increased in scope, number and membership. Athletics brought more sports and wins. Academics saw addition of teachers and courses for college prep, business, steno, general areas.

Yes, the pioneering and growing of Gavit High truly made 1963-64's theme, "We proudly present."

Girls Staters are Andi Beaty, Cheryl Hawkins; State Youth Commission, Marty Newcomb.

■ Through their top qualities, individuals brought honors both to themselves and their school.

Two semi-finalists and four letters of commendation recognized seniors in National Merit Tests.

Honors fell to seven senior boys invited to Rotary Club luncheons.

Juniors had Girls and Boys State, world affairs tour and governor's youth commission delegates.

Laurels in extracurricular work were national Arian Award for music, won by Sharon Yazumbek; and outstanding journalism senior trophy, presented by Quill & Scroll.

Voted Most Outstanding Athlete at the All-Sports banquet April 16 was three-sporter Bob Haack, senior.

Nine school science fair winners entered the regional. There Roland Camp won an Air Force award.

DAR award recepiant for outstanding citizenship is Louise Bryk.

With dreams of Gavit's first commencement in mind, seniors Sarah Lewis and Logan Koontz get measured for their caps and gowns.

It's activities that pace spirit, set teens in frenzy

Dedicated effort is apparent as junior Cynthia Przondo attempts to prepare her music lesson amidst jumble of band equipment.

as Gladiators rally, clown in offsetting daily grind

Interest intensifies as Gladiators anticipate outcome of a first-season baseball game. Even tracksters take time out from practice to join crowd and team at the sidelines.

■ Social calendar promoted loyalty, fun and work as activities piled up in '63-'64 to offset schoolwork.

Seniors gallivanted out East in October while Lettermen's sock hop kept GHS spirit burning back home.

Daisy Mae (Eileen Sullivan) chased Lil' Abner (Paul Kozubal) at the juniors' Sadie Hawkins dance Nov. 9.

Throat lozenges and confetti were in vogue during football and basketball seasons. Roundball duel between varsity, B-team and freshmen opened the B-ball season, bringing pep rallies and "Go Gavit" banners for sectionals, tourney.

Juniors gave the prom; Senior cords were a newborn custom.

Commencement marked final year of leading and growing for seniors receiving first GHS diplomas.

Enthusiam outranks a megaphone as cheerleaders Sharon Lohse, Carole Rosinski and Wendy Franey cheer Gladiator gridmen to victory.

Gladiator spirit slays Indians

■ Pep sessions, beanies, chicken wire, floats and salutes to lettermen identified the first, last and only Loyalty Week, Sept. 30—Oct. 5.

Saturday's win over Walkerton saw the marching band, drill team's premiere and a parade at halftime.

"Faces of Gavit" won for juniors a gold trophy in float competition. Senior float had a 12-foot gladiator and a theme of "Slay Indians."

Coronation of student-elected queen Gayle Sako ended festivities.

Gayle's court included Zoe Ellen Black, Carol Forsberg, Nancy Pickett and Rose Ann Sapyta.

Junior halfback Marty Newcomb evades the attempted drop of a Walkerton Indian tackle as senior halfback Ted Milobar moves in to assist Marty on the play.

Juniors come up with the final idea for their trophy winning float, "Faces of Gavit," as rivalry stiffens between classes.

Seniors dine, dance at prom

Trapped in a maze of skirts, boys watch for flowing gowns in midst of dancing couples.

■ Hairdressers, tuxedos, boutonnieres, and corsages preluded the first Junior Prom, May 17, 1963, at Schererville's Scherwood Club.

Under a "Three Coins in the Fountain" theme, 53 couples danced to Johnnie Nowan's band.

Ballroom was garnished in pink and white with gold coins, candles, and carnations. Punch trickled from a miniature table fountain.

Midnight dinner preceded grand march led by king and queen, Lester Core and Carol Forsberg.

Class of '64 took its first honorary member, Mr. Donald E. Gavit, city schools' business manager.

Four a.m. breakfast ended events.

Stately promenade around the pink and white ballroom covered the terrain of Lester Core and Carol Forsberg's kingdom.

Work stops on east shop addition but keeps up its dig and hammer pace on this west end. Crane and foundations wait patiently for 8 a.m. crew to break into snow-covered site.

■ Drama productions said "adieu" to the gym's makeshift stage and acoustics in three final plays here.

Last May's "Goodbye, My Fancy", Drama Club's first, used props but had no major scene changes.

Thespians moved to the cafeteria for a December performance of "Our Town", junior class play.

Back to the gym for "Arsenic and Old Lace" went Drama Club in February. Height was added by using the gym balcony as an upstairs.

Meanwhile, cranes and drills worked on the auditorium.

Shop construction halted in January to add high school shops: metals, wood, printing, drafting, electric and power mechanics.

Language labs in the 15-room west addition received the brunt of work for fall '64 completion.

equipment, boost pride, stir school spirit, interest

■ Teams from junior high to varsity levels in eight sports gave Gladiators, both doers and watchers, a full bill of athletic fare. They could choose from football, basketball, baseball, cross country, wrestling, track, golf and tumbling.

Improvement and expansion were both key words in the year's picture.

Witnessing varsity grid meets for the first time on home soil, home fans had about 3000 seats to choose from, thanks to new permanent stands on the west side and temporary bleachers on the east opponent's side. The entire athletic field, including last spring's new baseball diamond, added a permanent fence.

With winter's sub-zero onslaught, fans moved inside. When they witnessed hoopsters, they could sit in new folding bleachers on the west, or boys', gym balcony. More bleachers were to be added to the east side after shops went to the new wing.

Football, basketball and track went into their second year of varsity status. Joining them were baseball and wrestling, which had been mainly b-team last year. Cross country and tumbling moved into more interscholastic competition.

Highlights of the sports year included three new coaches; junior high city football championship; annual gymkhana; new equipment, such as scorers' tables and more uniforms; freshman, b-team and varsity Gavit holiday tourneys; improvement of season records; and a New Year's prediction by the "Hammond Times" that Gavit would dominate local sports.

Caged tiger reminds gridman Bob Takacs of Gavit's 13-7 win over Hammond Tech to end the Gladiator football season at 7-2.

Outside happenings, both important and frivolous,

■ Although engrossed by the school whirl, Gladiators were nevertheless affected by outside events, both momentous and frivolous.

Sadness gripped Gavit and the entire world when President John F. Kennedy died from an assassin's bullets Nov. 22 in Dallas. Another shock came Nov. 24 when millions watched TV and saw Jack Ruby kill Lee Harvey Oswald, accused presidential assassin.

School was in session long enough for a memorial service Nov. 25. It was then dismissed for televiewing of the Kennedy funeral.

Johnson becomes President

Thus the nation had a new president, Lyndon Baines Johnson, from Texas, who ordered a special commission to investigate the assassination. In March a Dallas jury declared Ruby guilty of murder.

President Johnson then saw Congressional passage of a tax cut. (Hoosiers got used to a two percent sales tax) and a Senate filibuster over civil rights. He warred on poverty and ordered emergency funds for Ohio River Valley floods and earthquake-ravaged Alaska.

Report links smoking, cancer

Other major national events included federal health department's report on smoking and health; race for the '64 presidential nod; and death of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

On the international scene, the Soviet-Chinese ideological rift worsened; Pope Paul pilgrimaged to the Holy Land; South Viet Nam and Brazil revolted against their rulers; Panama broke off and later resumed relations with the U.S. in a dispute over the Canal; and Douglas Home became British prime minister.

For some teens, the Beatle invasion dominated internationalism.

Clay stuns sports world

Sports fans noted Cassius Clay's world heavyweight boxing upset of Sonny Liston; Lafayette Jeff's state basketball championship; the U.S.' one gold medal in the winter Olympics in Austria; the Chicago Bears' National Football League championship; and the Los Angeles Dodgers' world series crown.

Sure to cause wagging tongues were the Profumo-Keeler scandal in England; Liz Taylor's marriage to Richard Burton and the Bobby Baker case in Washington, D.C.

Local events marked the birth and death of a newspaper, Northwest Indiana Sentinel; and continued exposition of county crime, politics.

Elephants stump jokesters

Elephant and nationality jokes caused their share of grins, while folk songs and hootenannies stayed high on the popularity list.

Puffy hairdos gave way to smooth styles for girls, who wore A-line skirts, stacked heels, culottes and shifts. Both boys and girls donned stretch pants and dickies.

On the Gavit level came one-way stairs, integration, locker partners for seniors, and police at dances.

Despite the drizzle of the afternoon of Nov. 22, the GHS flag waves out at half mast in mourning for President Kennedy.

"Yeah, yeah, yeah," says Ron Shinkle, who is getting a lesson in wearing his hair Beatle style. His tutor is Arnie Lewin, complete with Beatle wig and magazine.

It's academics where accreditation aims at higher

Solemn library shelves remind Maria Shepherd of study hall, critiques and term papers.

standards, 121 classes round out curricula, clubs

Both junior and senior classes incorporate panel discussions, as this 7B group of Sharon Lessig, Bob Pease, Dennis Taylor, Pam Wehmen and Patty Shreve discuss a short story.

■ Accreditation by North Central Association was aimed for as the year's highest goal. A unified GHS effort was emitted in readying for the 13-man committee which surveyed the school Dec. 10-13.

Preparation meant a faculty self-evaluation which included all college and graduate courses taken and explanation of teaching techniques.

Next, each faculty member served on committees to study GHS philosophy, objectives, subject departments, curriculum, community relationships.

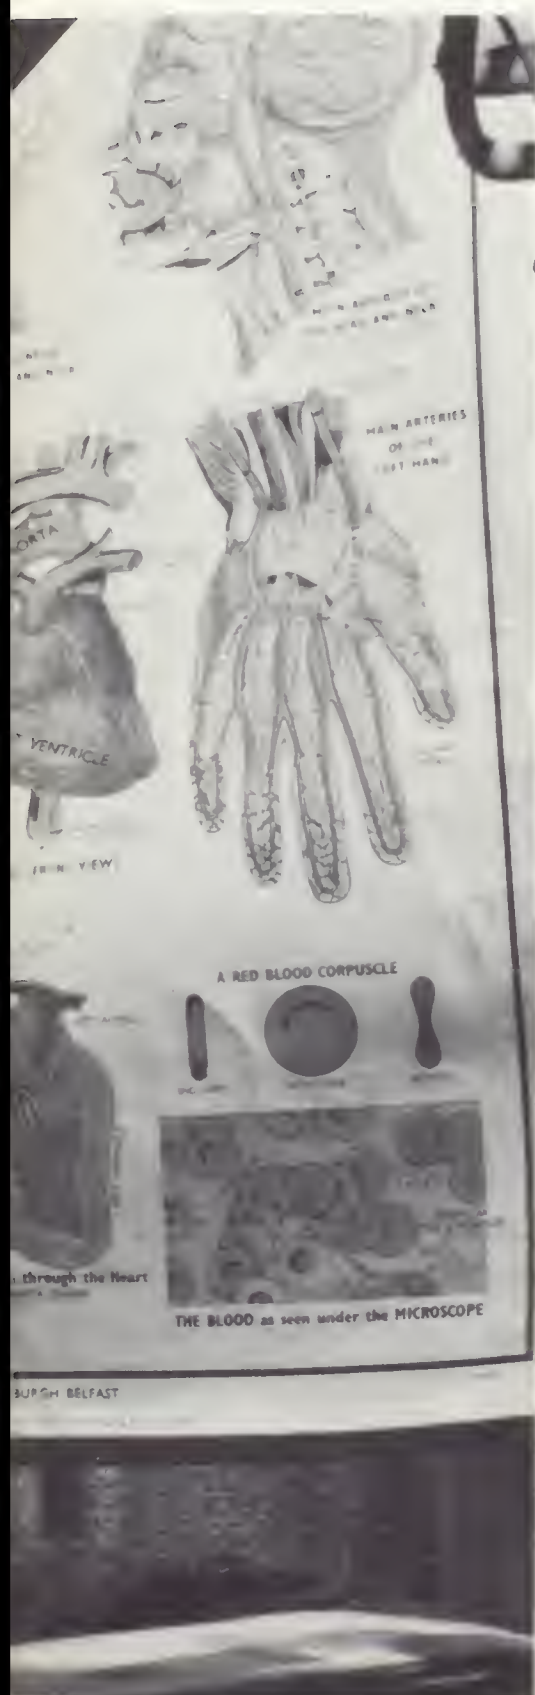

NCA committee visited each class, watched behavior, knew facts such as number of books in the library and desks in the lobby study hall.

Academics also hit a new peak by adding senior courses, advanced languages, new electives. High school totaled 121 different courses, junior high 35. Curriculum gave rise to more co-curricular clubs and trips.

Debate and ideas come from senior magazine critiques as Letty Hicks, Peggy Motes, Sue Ann Peavler, Jim Milobar, Jim Sherby show.

Academic

Throughout '63-'64 Gladiators were certain to race to class, wait in line at the bookstore or consult for answers to the French quiz. Remembering when Sherman marched or interpreting "The Scarlet Letter" taxed minds as tromping through snow to libraries or scaling trees for leaves taxed bodies.

Eerie setting from Macbeth is staged in an English literature class. Sarah Lewis, Georgia Cole and Paul Kozubal portray the famous hags.

New Books, AV

■ All new books and audio-visual aids aroused interest in English classes. Unlined paper and fountain pens readied seniors for college writing, business correspondence.

Murderous "Macbeth" vexed seniors as budding authors developed style and philosophy in Creative Writing.

Relieved of term papers, Comp V juniors studied mass media and research while sophs bridged literature and grammar by reading "Caesar" and drilling sentence structure.

Sentence diagrams haunted junior high as frosh read Dickens' novels, polished grammar. Journalism II added advanced lab, career work.

Orators practiced persuasive speaking and phonetics in Speech I, II.

Department moved to its new office in a library conference room.

Early birds Andy Beaty, Sue Pasko and Mary Macnack prepare a Creative Writing display.

equipment, skits animate typical English courses.

Reading selections from their textbooks to the class, junior high English students Bonnie Ayres and Don Grunnet promote group interest.

As he demonstrates technique to his Speech I classmates, junior Bruce Natkin's main concern is the acquisition of self-confidence for all types of speaking in public.

Aspects of Spain, its geography, products and literature are studied by Bob Haack, Jim Bialker and Dave Solon, Spanish III students.

Receiving individual assistance from language instructor Herr Martin Hunt, German correctness of her verb synopsis.

Spanish III students Patti Garrett and Don Minnich examine a Peruvian nativity scene.

Linguists tangle tongues around baffling phrases

■ Advanced study brought culture along with basic linguistic knowledge this year in early bird classes.

Fundamentals down pat, third year Latin students learned of Rome as they read Cicero and Virgil.

"South of the border" atmosphere prevailed in Spanish classes, as records, translations, songs and grammar broke language barriers.

Primary German texts concentrated on grammar, while advanced, early morning study focused attention on conversational ability.

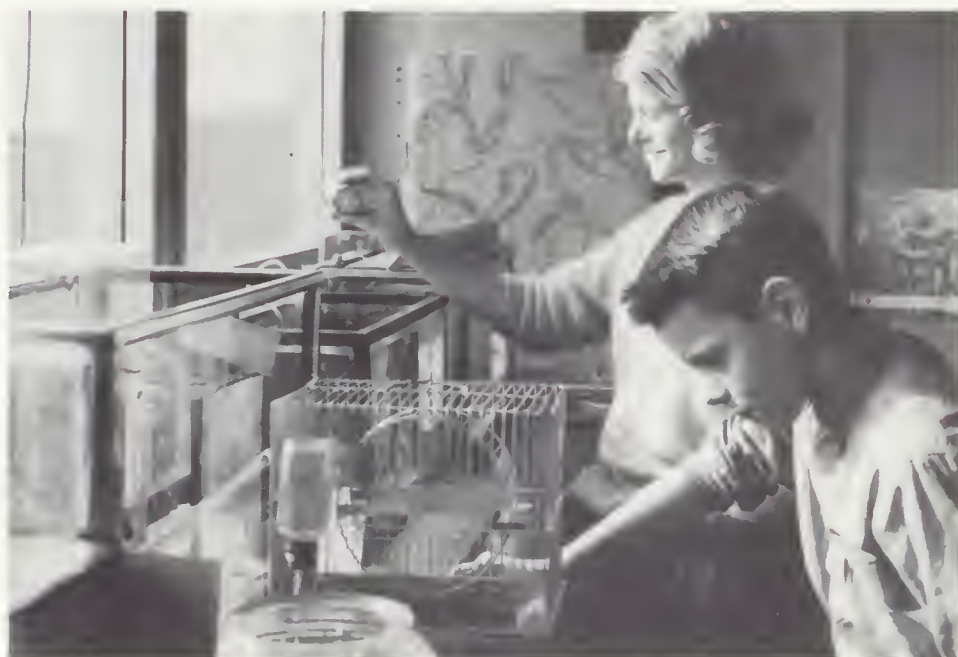

French III and IV premiered with a concentration on conversational French, while beginning students conjugated verbs and studied sentence structure. Classes toured the French exhibits at Carson Pirie Scott and Co. in Chicago to further cultural knowledge of the Parisians.

Beneath French I's birthday chart, frosh Bouton discover that learning French requires more than text memorization.

Modern science gadgets greet new lab students

Caring for science class pets, such as gold fish and a white mouse, promotes group interest as well as individual attention from Kathy Cosgrove and Carl Aldrich.

■ Test tubes, pulleys and skeletons became familiar sights as GHS scientists took to chemistry, biology, physics and general science labs.

Jaunts to museums, displays and forest preserves, along with new texts, broadened scientific learning.

This knowledge was put to practical use in weekly labs, as third-floor students well knew from lab odors tinging unsuspecting nostrils.

Leaf collecting, animal or algae raising and science fair projects increased individual interest.

Addition of chemistry brought to four, with health and safety, the number of high school sciences offered. Three semesters of junior high science rounded the curriculum.

Carefully dissecting starfish, Biology I students Molly Dunn and Glenn Swearingen prepare for microscopic observation.

Scientists Marc Horn and Richard Meredith note boiling water.

Clarifying aspects of a UICSM algebra problem, instructor Mr. Lee Mann confers with sophomores Gerry Nagdeman and Ray Kasenga.

Armed with clean test tube and Bunsen burner, Chemistry VII student Steven White prepares for an oxygen production experiment.

Experimenting with force measurement, students in Physics V attempt to understand scientifically the secrets of nature.

Aiming toward skill in mathematical operations, Miss Caryle Feddeler presents a math puzzle to her eighth grade class.

Mathematicians find 20 courses to perplex them

■ Challenging minds were 20 required and elective math courses.

General math offered just that, concentrating on finance problems. Algebra brought graphs, unknown X's and Y's to college prep students.

"Aristotles" went on to geometry, studying angles and polygons, proving unknowns deductively.

Branching to advanced algebra meant logarithms and slide rule, so handy in scientific calculations.

Reaching a mathematical peak were senior courses of trigonometry and Geometry III for math majors.

UISCM reached a third year for advanced students, but the math pyramid's base was junior high's decimals, problems, basic operations.

Opaque projectors and a three-foot slide rule modernized classes

Putting theorems to work in problem solving is Debbie Wojciehowski as Sandy Wilson examines a collection of geometric figures.

Current events, films, aid social studies students

Consumer Report, Dow-Jones' average and pamphlets on consumer buying power, which form the basis of Economics VIII, help seniors understand fluctuations in U.S. economy.

■ Current events, movies, speakers aided all social studies classes as seniors finished three years of such study by entering a world of campaign slogans, party platforms and political duties in Government VII.

National debt and budget problems faced economics seniors, who made scrapbooks to show findings.

Seeing the "before and after" of world events was aided by movies and museum trips. World War II study meant bringing war relics.

Junior high history promoted historic novels, biographies, while civics classes began a hoped-for tradition of touring local court, city halls and studying voting machines.

Geographical points of interest capture Rich Rogala's attention as he studies a world map.

Documents—from the Declaration of Independence being studied by Randy Glad and Sara Solon, to the Test-Ban Treaty—are discussed by junior high students in history.

Executaries, copiers premiere in business family

Copying examples from the textbook helps junior Ellen Sherby to develop stenographic proficiency in one of the business department's beginning shorthand classes.

■ Calculating on new adding machines, taking dictation from executaries headed daily assignments in Clerical Practice I and II, new members of the business family.

Needed for clerical work was also speedy and accurate skill in transcription, which heralded a two-hour early bird schedule each day.

Preluding transcription were semesters of shorthand and typing.

Business law, math, management again versed students in economic and legal phrases of business.

Nine hours of typing stretched from early bird to eighth hour.

Instructing these 26 classes were Misses Florence Grunkemeyer, Judy Baker; Mr. Rich Jonas, Mrs. Eleanor Rainey, and Mr. Homer Meredith, head guidance counselor.

Animated concentration marks typing efforts of juniors Flossie Alb, Sharon Leonard.

New business machines, automatic calculators, take over even subtraction and multiplication, as seniors Sharyn Medley and Carole Rosinski learn in Clerical Practice I.

At the dexterous hands of art student Bonnie Kocur, simple materials plus inspiration yield fascinating results.

Aspiring artists cultivate creativity with projects

Creating is only part of work in art class as sophomore Bob Rozhon and senior Kitty Fansler discover while cleaning up after a session with messy materials.

■ All art students worked on individual projects, each majoring in his own field of interest.

With Mr. Reginald Gilbertsen guiding them, Art I, II and III students mixed and molded, then experimented with plaster and ceramics.

Piecing together reed and wire sculptures in unique designs, junior highs fought to keep work intact.

In place of jackknife, rocking chair and front porch, the amateurs whittled wood into common or weird shapes with art knives in either the third floor art or cooking rooms.

Engraving, designing and etching helped those artists going into commercial art or advertising.

Mrs. Beulah Seckinger, working full- instead of part-time, and Mr. Gilbertsen devoted time to such school projects as making one-way stair signs, directional signs for College Night and room number guides.

New studies, robes, choirs tune up choral work

Latin Christmas carol confronts music theory student Sharon Yazumbek, who ponders its notation and structure. Music evolution entered into study.

■ Music theory and music history, new courses in the music department, transformed music students into aspiring Leonard Bernsteins.

Juggling music notes and parroted lyrics, theory students experimented in composing, arranging and harmonizing. Theory helped those planning to stay in this field prepare for college entrance exams.

Approaching music history retrospectively, students analyzed ancient Greek rhythms. They returned to modernism via 17th century works.

One step below concert choir, mixed glee club wore last year's choir robes; selective concert choir donned new robes with two-toned collars. Both met daily, often mixing scenery work with rehearsals.

Also contributing to cultural training were junior high classes of singing and basic theory.

Seasonal concerts, exchange concerts and a May fine arts festival rounded out the year.

Selecting choice foods, preparing them and the task for junior high foods students planning meals around the Basic Four pose Theresa Pace and Janet Katz.

Eying her reflection in the double mirror, Pat Kohut admires her completed blouse.

Nimble fingers, white thumbs spur home ec gals

Claudette Cullom puzzles over the intricacies of constructing a blouse in Clothing I. Here girls learn not only technical details but also basics of fashion and grooming.

■ Tight scheduling meant making Basic Four charts, budgets, no cooking for 7B home ec. But 7A's topped stoves with cereals and eggs.

High school cooks fixed similar meals, tried their white thumbs at baking for a pre-Christmas party.

Doughnuts from scratch climaxed dessert study, with casseroles following. Two days in the making, spring buffet luncheon honored high school clothing classes, teachers.

Working without patterns, 8A's made draw-string aprons, cotton skirts in junior high sewing.

High school clothing concentrated on the necessary as Clothing I girls prepared pin cushions, skirts.

Skill reached peak in Clothing II where each girl fashioned a blouse, pleated skirt, and dress. Pajama home assignments kindled interest allowed more time for completing class projects.

Work-a-day world flourishes in new east wing

■ Working over drafting boards with sharpened pencil, T square and triangle, students in mechanical drawing developed accuracy and learned about vocations which need know-how in mechanical drawing.

Even girls enrolled in this, the newest of industrial arts courses, taught by Mr. Norman Banas.

Housed in temporary quarters of the east gym balcony, mechanical drawing, along with shops, later would move to the new east wing.

Whether under gym rafters or in freshly painted rooms, junior high boys concentrated on proper tool use by work with wood, metal.

Supervised by Mr. Erwin Brauer, they also constructed bird houses, letter holders, spice rack, sugar scoops, and worked with blueprints.

Bent over his drafting board, junior Tom Gilliam combines T square with triangle to complete a drawing of a slotted cam for Mr. Norm Banas' mechanical drawing class.

Junior high student David Flood masters use of hand drill for later applications.

Eagerness, beams on the face of eighth grader Bill Daniels constructing a stool.

Stress on fitness permeates atmosphere of gym

Push ups are integral part of semi-weekly PE warmup for junior higher Mark Cane.

■ Sounds of "one-two, one-two" and "watch those layups" labeled the year as one stressing physical fitness for both boys and girls.

Helping girls build stamina and develop grace and poise were Misses Jackie Bruno and Margaret Kelly.

Junior-highers tried tumbling, soccer, volleyball, softball, square and folk dancing. Older girls emphasized rules for these sports and worked mainly on modern dance.

Led by Messrs. George Smith and Wayne Wagner, junior-senior high boys' energies went to similar sports.

Winter meant calisthenics, flag football, soccer, wrestling and B-ball, while "soccey", gymnastics, rebound tumbling and track and field headed spring enterprises.

PE department added a set of parallel bars, two 10-foot tumbling mats, climbing ropes and scorers' tables to its equipment stock.

Looking for the initial chance for a wrestling victory are Don Pearson and Tom Hanna in high school physical education class.

Student instructor Letty Hicks demonstrates trampoline technique.

Pre-class warm-ups in the form of arm circles and other calisthenics play a major part in 7B phys. ed. activities.

Athletics

Gladiators stepped victorious from arenas to bronze '63-'64 for their "winningest" seasons.

Gridders climaxed a smashing season by pounding Tech's Tigers and reversing 1962's record to 7-2.

Retaliation came thick and fast for B-ballers, who upset Calumet and broke a state point record—106-98 against Chesterton.

Gridders' finale adds Tigers to Tackle by Bob Takacs falls Griffith Panther as Dan Goddard and Marty Newcomb assist.

■ Reversing last year's record, Gavit ended varsity grid campaign with seven wins, two losses. Home games were played Saturday afternoons on the new Gavit gridiron.

First win of season came in the opener, a 14-7 job over Calumet Twp. Warriors struck first on a 61-yard reverse, but Gavit countered with two fourth-period touchdowns.

Powerful Gary Andrean proved too much for the Gladiators in their second encounter. Andrean beat the G-men 24-6. Ernie Tall tallied for Gavit on a quarterback sneak.

Rennsalaer took the field against a hungry Gavit eleven and the G-men ran roughshod over the Bombers 40-6. Six different players hit paydirt as Bob Haack, Bob Swearingen, Dave Denham, Ted Milobar, Jim Milobar and Jim Williams had one touchdown each.

Gavit drive stalled on the five-yard line, proving the difference in a 14-7 loss to Griffith's Panthers. That evened the GHS chart at two wins and two defeats. Offense took shape and combined with an already formidable defense. Team was then armed to start off on a five-game winning streak.

Walkerton helped celebrate Loyalty Day by succumbing 21-0 in a top defense effort. Tackle Paul Kozubal rambled 25 yards across the goal line with a blocked Indian punt.

Gavit then met Dyer Central to hand them a 26-6 setback. River Forest was next to fall to G-men in a 13-6 lackluster performance.

Hammond Tech provided stiff challenge, but the G-men almost doubled the Tigers in rushing yardage as they powered their way to a 13-7 season-ending victory. Dave Denham and Bob Haack scored on short blasts up the middle.

Potent power-packers post 4-2 football records

■ B-team gridmen ended their campaign with a four-two record. Gary Edison was the first victim, dropping a 13-6 decision. In the next encounter G-men lost a 12-7 contest to city rival Morton.

Gladiators got back on the winning track with a 21-13 victory over River Forest only to lose 7-0 to Hammond Tech in the next game. B-teamers closed the season with successive shutouts over Lowell and Clark by 21-0 and 13-0 scores.

Freshman footballers matched b-team's four-two chart. First two victories came over north side foes Clark and Whiting, 18-6 and 12-0.

Morton handed the plebes their first loss in an 18-13 thriller played at Hessville Park. Next game found the Gladiators eking out a 14-13 victory over the Tech Tigers. Last two games were played with the Gladiators splitting identical 19-0 scores by beating Gary Edison and losing to Hammond High.

Calumet upset, state records highlight basketball

■ Gavit's second varsity season ended with a 9-12 record. G-men began on a losing note by bowing, 86-60, to Griffith and 79-63 to Highland.

First win of the year was a thumping of Morgan Township, 88-72. Gladiators then suffered a drought of three straight losses, but got back on the winning track 86-68 over Brook on the away court.

Gavit hosted its second annual holiday tournament Dec. 28. Calumet took the championship trophy by whipping Gavit and Tech. In the consolation game, Gladiators scorched the nets for a 106-98 victory over Chesterton. For a while this score held state season records.

GHS split the next four games, losing to Thornton Fractionals North and South and disposing of Chesterton and Hammond Clark.

Three-game win-streak followed with victories over Portage and River Forest and an upset of Calumet.

Season closed with a win over East Gary sandwiched between losses to Noll, Whiting and Lowell.

Second sectional victory bid fell short in the Civic Center when Caumet got revenge, 79-63.

Bob Swearingen rebounds against Chesterton.

Bob Haack gains control of a tipoff.

■ Coach Tom Chintis' B-team closed the season with an 11-7 chart. Gladiators made three in a row their longest winning streak, while never dropping more than one without a follow-up win.

Al Fraser was leading scorer, tallying 185 points for a 10.3 average. Fraser also hauled down the most rebounds for the junior G-men.

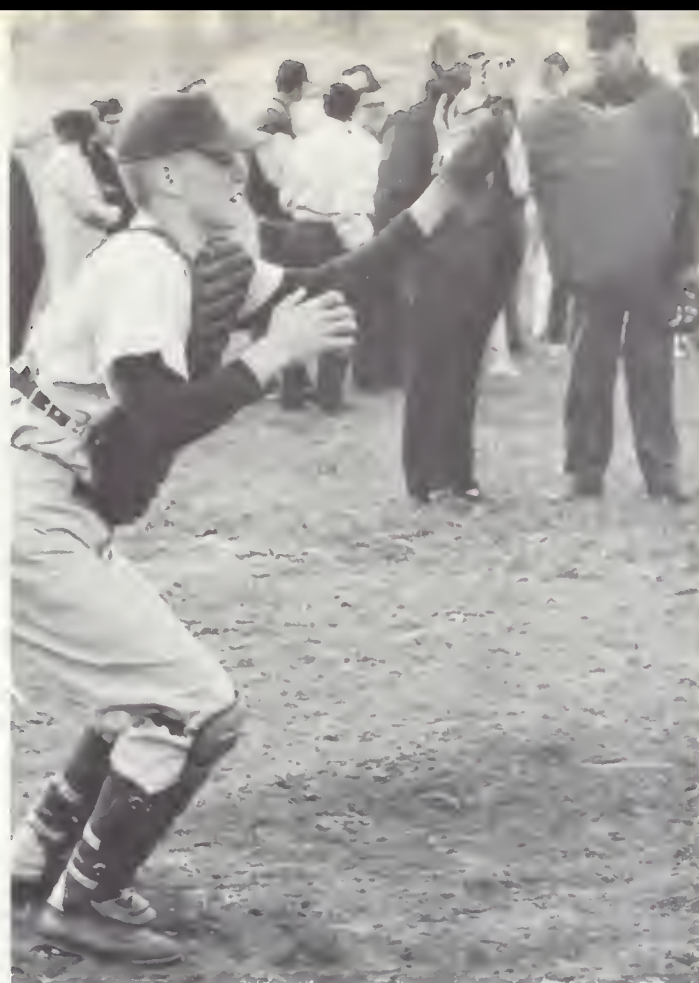

Freshman basketballers ended the season with only one win in fourteen encounters. Steve Catherman led with 193 points, a 13.9 average. Coach Paul Brush's crew lost four games by five points or less.

golf crews join blooming spring sports programs

■ Golf joined the Gavit spring sports calendar this year with Mr. Joseph Goodnight taking over the coaching duties. Gladiators opened their play at the Lake Hills golf course in St. John.

Teebreakers used Wicker Park course for all home matches. Various meets were scheduled at both courses. Meets were played by the five lowest qualifiers.

■ Baseball squad played on a B-team level in '63 with six games scheduled. Al Detterline, batting seven for nine sparked the team with a .777 average.

Ross Smith, ending the season with a 1-0 record, pitched the Gladiators' single victory. Jack Solon registered the most strike-outs in one game with nine.

Thinlies progress; harriers debut in x-country

■ Athletes ran for team honors in both track and cross country, both of which debuted in 1963.

Varsity track was initiated last spring with a seven-meet schedule. Coach Earl Thompson's varsity cindermen edged Whiting in the Clark relays and outscored the 59ers in the Gary Andrean relays.

B-team track finished its first season with six wins and one loss. The lone defeat was a 55-54 cliff hanger with Morton Governors.

Coach Earl Fruehling instituted cross country as a varsity sport this fall and became the youngest head coach in Hammond. Drills began Sept. 12—after school had begun—for the 25 boys trying out.

Hindered by a late start, the team was composed entirely of underclassmen. It finished fourth in the Hammond City Meet and outran eight other schools, including Tech and Morton, in the sectionals.

Freshman-sophomore harriers were undefeated in their first season. They toppled Griffith, Andrean and Highland. As did the varsity, they ran most meets in Gleason Park.

Trophies laurel lettermen at All Sports Banquet

Papa Bear is winning at dice as Paul Kozubal, Nils Salvesen and Jim Milobar ham it up in "The Three Bears," presented by the Lettermen's Club at last spring's band concert.

■ All-Sports Banquet April 16 at Tiebel's Restaurant feted GHS athletes to climax Lettermen's second year. George Ireland, Loyola basketball coach, was principal speaker.

Trophies bought from the profits of the senior-underclass basketball game laureled most valuable players and other outstanding athletes.

Number of purple and gold lettermen jackets mushroomed with the addition of varsity track, cross-country, baseball, golf and wrestling letter winners to the club.

"Plebe" lettermen saw action during the halftime of home basketball games when they swept the gym floor for club initiation. Veteran lettermen worked at wrestling, football and basketball home games.

Highlighting the club's '63-'64 activities were two lettermen-sponsored dances—one featuring the Vikings—and a sockhop in the gym after a home basketball game.

Contortionists polish routines for gymkhana

■ Meeting three nights a week, 17 girls on girls tumbling team worked to perfect their portion of the April 24 Gymkhana. New routines featured work on uneven parallel bars and the side horse.

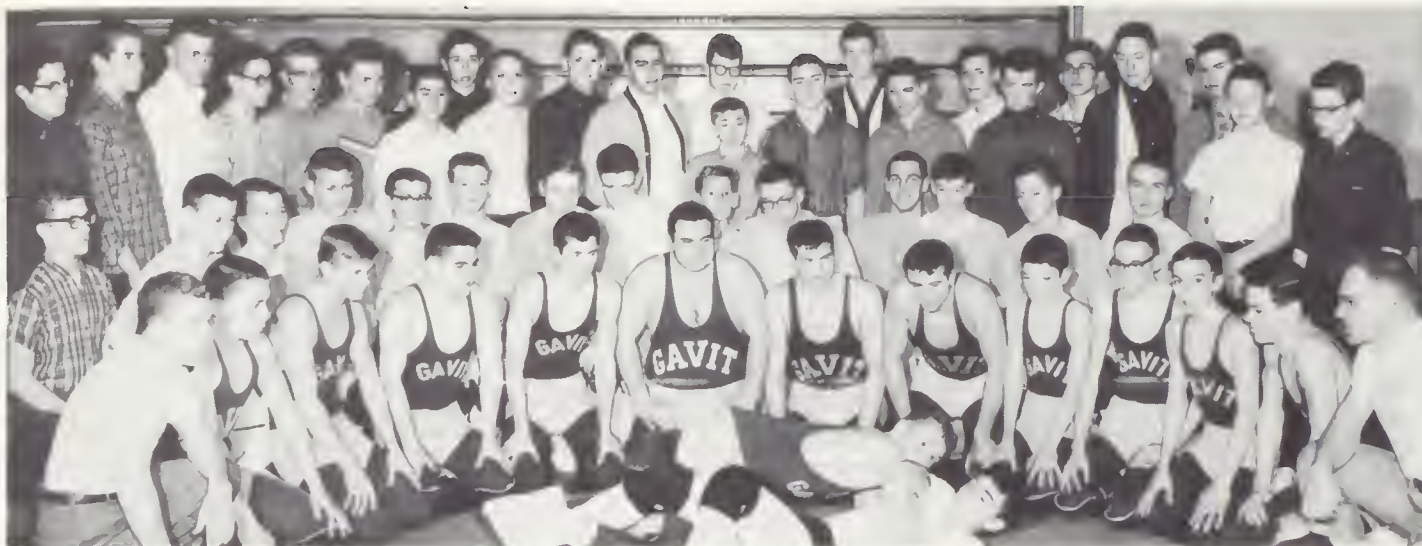

Attired in white blouses and blue denim stretch shorts, masters of equilibrium worked on balance beams and the trampoline. The entire crew worked out contortional tricks and routines.

Four seniors and 13 underclassmen comprised the boys tumbling team. John Vevurka and Jim Housley led seniors in apparatus work on parallel bars and the horse, while underclassmen concentrated on fundamental drills. The team performed at the April 15 PTA meeting in addition to their traditional performance at the Gymkhana.

New mat inspires grapplers in season wrap-up

■ First varsity wrestling team wound up on the winning side of the new twenty-foot purple and gold mat for its final two meets, when River Forest and Marion Catholic varsity and b-teams fell to the G-men.

Season began with a meet against the veteran Tech Tigers. The 10-meet schedule gained momentum as the grapplers met foes from strong, long established wrestling schools in the Calumet Region.

Experience gained from '63-'64 set the stage for a notable showing in Morton's Invitational Tourney February 1, when Gavitt placed second, topping Andrean and Noll.

Twelve-strong in state sectional, matmen took fifth, above Noll.

"The first varsity men did well," commented Coach George Smith. "The season was successful, not in terms of team record, but in making the school aware of the program, and interesting boys in wrestling. Competitive spirit has been established, as indicated by the few routs against respectable foes."

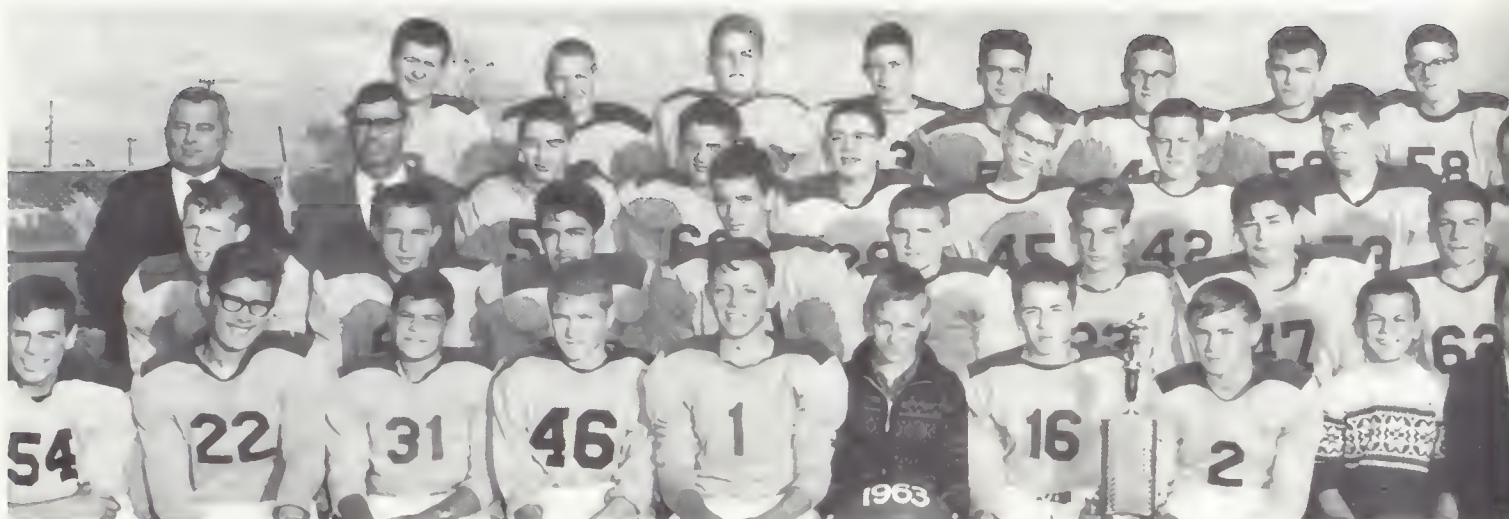

Eighty-nine boys reported for wrestling; more than 100 are expected in '65. Looking to this manpower increase next year, Mr. Smith hoped for new timers' equipment, more mat space and uniforms.

Junior high gridgers, trackmen snare city titles

■ Junior high football team won the city championship this year for the third time in four years of competition. Coached by Mr. Wayne Wagner and Mr. Ernest Hurt, the junior Gladiators overwhelmed all opposition by a margin of 131 to 6. A long pass in the fleeting moments of the final game accounted for the only points scored against them.

Seventh grade roundballers compiled a .500 record, winning five and losing five. Coach Wagner's eighth graders won seven games while losing only three.

Junior high track team entered the Hammond City Meet last year, and took firsts in Class II and Class III events. They also garnered the overall championship trophy.

■ Student Council highlighted its year by dividing into two sections: one for junior high and one for senior high. Representatives from all grades had previously comprised the membership of one council.

Junior high group sponsored a dance after school in the lobby for seventh and eighth graders. Although the date was originally set for Nov. 22, junior high officers had an emergency meeting to postpone the event until December. Word of President John F. Kennedy's assassination caused the change.

To implement its work, senior high Student Council formed a student advisory board and activities and clubs committees. As one of its main projects, the activities committee proposed a petition system for social activities. Hopes were that the system would provide means for confirming dates and details.

Council maintained a calendar of events on the bulletin board.

Spring elections and a letter to students from Doug Jones stressing accreditation's importance completed the councils' year.

Scholars start NHS traditions, initiate juniors

■ Symbolic green, yellow, blue and red draperies, white pillar and National Honor Society emblem staged scene for evening induction of 20 charter members of GHS' first NHS.

Morton officers—personifying character, scholarship, leadership, service and idealism—performed the rites before parents and friends April 7. A reception followed.

Compiling their own initiation ceremony, charter seniors then elected officers and later initiated juniors.

Approximately 30 were chosen for junior high national honor society. Qualifications for this honor included 4.0 (B) average for four consecutive grading periods.

Prior to officer election, Craig Ellis was chosen temporary society chairman and constitution chairman. Activities committee co-ordinated group through spring.

Warblers use vocal chords for four ensembles

■ By auditioning in the fall, vocalists could join one of four HS ensembles: Rhythmaires, Rhythmettes, mixed ensemble or madrigals.

Both composed of 12 singers, Rhythmaires staged all boys, Rhythmettes all girls. Each sang music in a lighter vein in several community functions this year.

Mixed ensemble debuted at the soph class hootenanny in November. At the northern Indiana vocal contest, this new group garnered a first, or superior, rating.

Also ranking first in the contest were the madrigals, garbed in their 16th century costumes.

Besides appearing in department concerts with the other ensembles, they undertook a madrigal opera with separate parts sung by a chorus.

All four rehearsed out of class with director Mr. Thomas Clark.

Honorary taps top journalists

■ Quill and Scroll's second year saw the initiation of a dozen new members and a first-class rating for the Scroll by National Scholastic Press Association.

Journalists went again to the Northern Indiana Journalism Seminar at Valpo U. April 4. Sue Sanders and Sherry Fyte were student panelists' and Miss Judy Richter was a workshop speaker that day.

Heralded in an NIJS display as one of northern Indiana's top year-books was last year's Futura.

Year ended with a second annual publications banquet May 19, at which new members were initiated, and awards, including outstanding senior in publications, were given.

Piling plates high are journalists and their families at last spring's Q&S banquet.

■ Forensics and Debate clubs joined forces to compile two consecutive years' 1000 points for entry in National Forensics League.

Meets at HHS, Lafayette Jeff, Elkhart, Peru and Purdue accumulated individual and club NFL points.

In the first full year of varsity action, four debate men earned "Degrees of Merit" for point totals.

More seminars and debates at PU, Butler, Howe Military, U. of Illinois and regional high schools preluded GHS sectionals wins over Hobart, Noll; regional loss to HHS.

Thespians gave profits from "Our Town" (December) to the junior class. February's "Arsenic and Old Lace" was the last Drama Club endeavor to be produced in the gym.

Drama Club classes studied the Stanislowsky "method" of acting.

■ Glue and new headline schedule in hand, Scroll editors readied dummy sheets for mimeographing and even tried their hand at printing photos in second anniversary edition.

Increasing staff efficiency for the 18 issues were definite page editors who dished out assignments and took charge of their own pages.

Reporters, many from Journalism I, checked beats to keep tab on organizations and hunted up scoops for advance front page coverage.

Rated yearly, Scroll copped a third place in 62-63 Columbia Scholastic Press Association, a second in National Scholastic Press Assn.

To further Scroll quality, editor Sherry Fyte went to Indiana U for a two-week newspaper institute; she won second place for her editor's brief, was second runner-up for the institute scholarship.

Yearbook delves

■ One-third larger, the '64 "Futura" hailed its second student edition with 168 pages.

Addition of 40 pages allowed for senior section, advertising, and spring sports and activities.

Business staff was created to sell ads to local businesses and books, totaling 904, to students.

Last year's rating by National Scholastic Press Association garnered a first class grade for Futura's national competition debut.

Improvement on the book began at Indiana U's summer yearbook institute, where Sue Sanders, Beth Hanneld and Lavonne Bebler found new angles on design, copy, advertising and reader interest.

Third in business management class, Sue was second runner-up for institute scholarship; Lavonne placed fourth in copywriting.

Activities reflect English Club's cultural interest

At the English Club Book Fair, seniors Mary Macnak, Sandy Leeney and Adeo Nicolai make their selections from among the world's great classical and contemporary authors.

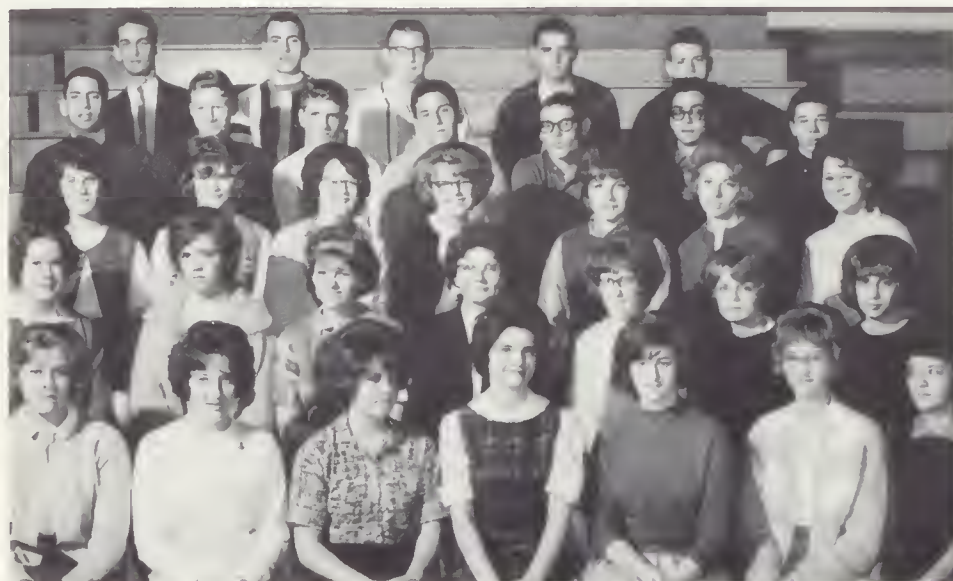

■ "Let's get cultured" headed English Club plans for hitting cultural spots in Chicago on a club basis.

Operating under its new constitution, members of the club sponsored a fall book fair in a book mobile in front of the school. During the second semester, student response to buying paperbacks decided if a permanent paperback book fair would be in the library.

"La Plume," the club's literary effort, received its first copyright in the spring. Members, primarily those in creative writing class, furnished bulk of "La Plume" material, which exceeded last year's volume.

"Silver Bells" lent holiday atmosphere to the lobby for the club's annual semi-formal dance held Dec. 14. Bill Tabinsky and the Majestics provided the music for the 40 couples who attended the dance.

■ Roundup of more than 100 members snowballed Spanish Club to a rousing first year of activities.

Constitutional writing and ratifying founded El Circulo Espanol as the official club name.

First activity, involving about 35 members, was seeing the Ballet Folklorico de Mexico at McCormick Place during the holidays.

In February the south of the border brigade rode again to Chicago to see Senor Jose Greco, the renowned Flamenco dancer.

Back home El Circulo planned a costume dance complete with sombreros, Mexican refreshments and bright fiesta atmosphere to celebrate Pan-American day in April.

Profits from dance and sales of Mexican pastries to students and faculty went to a fund for a foreign exchange student. Building this fund was the club's major goal.

New French, Latin clubs plan soiree, banquet

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS—Mrs. Eleanor Rainey, sponsor; Sue Sanders, president; Joan Kunka, secretary; Sue Westman, treasurer; Ann Cunningham, vice president.

■ "April in Paris" theme captured the air of the new French Club's spring time enactment of Paris April 4 in the front lobby.

All members of French classes had a part in the soiree, sponsored and organized by the club. They acted as bankers, ran flea markets, guided tours around the city, acted in skits or French classrooms, and served French pastries and lemonade.

Latin Club members raided their linen closets for the second semester Roman banquet. Thus attired in traditional togas and tunics, banquet-goers lounged Roman style on floor cushions while dining on the "from soup to nuts" meal.

Historical reports and Roman plays taken from the Latin textbook headed the new club's agendas.

■ Affiliation with the National Science Club topped the year's accomplishments for Science Club, with election of officers and adoption of a constitution as follow-up achievements for '63-'64.

Twenty-five members offset regular meetings with visits to the Museum of Science and Industry. Trips to other science displays and museums were also in the offing.

Science Club encouraged members to enter projects in the GHS and Lake County science fairs in spring.

Collecting and trading stamps for fun and profit was part of the Philatelic Club agenda. At meetings and amongst themselves, members begged, borrowed and traded rare and new stamps. They learned more about the stamps from foreign countries from discussions at meetings.

Aids to the stamp enthusiasts were stamp magazines.

■ Both Y-Teens and Future Nurses Club stressed good will and charity plus careers, social polish in '64.

For Christmas, FNCers concocted cookies and fudge and gave magazine gift subscriptions at Beatty Memorial Hospital in Westville.

Highlight of the year was the reception of a membership charter from the National League of Nursing. It dubbed the Gavit chapter with the name Bibs and Caps.

To learn of various fields in nursing, medicine, FNC had as speakers a public health nurse, a doctor, an industrial nurse. Two nurses from Gary Methodist Hospital told of courses and social life for student nurses at their school of nursing.

Y-Teens included community service in their second year by soliciting funds for the March of Dimes. For this they received a letter of recognition from the M-D committee.

"Misty," second annual turnabout, raised money to send an officer to the Y-Teens summer camp.

Hall showcase displayed proper attire for this dress-up dance, featuring the Kingsmen.

FTA assists faculty; chessmen challenge ECR

■ Armed with red pencils, Future Teachers of America played pedagogue by student teaching and helping faculty members grade papers.

FTAers also observed classroom procedures at other schools.

Through a convention at Muncie, roundup at LaPorte and programs, members met education leaders.

Back-to-school Night bake sale and hayride rounded social ventures.

With a doubled membership, the Chess Club entered its first meet at EC Roosevelt April 4, with hopes of playing the Dyer club in May.

Plagued first with no definite meeting room and then with too little time for chess tourneys during club periods, members finally set 7:30 a.m. practice sessions for their inter- and intra-club meets.

■ Crowded Red Cross calendar kept the 34 members busy taking Christmas cookies to St. Ann's Home and dunking and painting Easter eggs to give to needy children.

Students pitched in to collect toothbrushes, pencils, ball and jacks for friendship boxes to destitute children of foreign countries.

Future fund-raising goals aimed to buy business reference books for the library, support an orphan or initiate a scholarship fund.

Admission requirements to Future Business Leaders of America were discussed at the first meeting of the new Business Club.

Hoping for FLBA acceptance, the club ratified a constitution, formed in and out committees to plan activities in and out of GHS.

3M Company grant sets AV wheels in motion

■ Vital to stage-lighting for plays, movie-showing for government and science, and amplifying for auditorium sessions was the 62-man audio-visual department.

Milestone for AV workers was Gavit's $3000 grant of equipment from the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. in December.

Perhaps Gavit's largest Christmas gift, the grant included 11 portable overhead projectors, two copying machines, 3000 copying sheets.

GHS qualified for the award through submission of faculty letters showing how Gavit could make best use of the equipment.

AV crew provided movies and overhead projectors for classrooms; spotlights, mikes, and phonographs for programs, assemblies, dances.

Amateur staffs dig in to lighten faculty load

■ Student interests in mind, nurse, counselor and library aides stood ready to care for cut fingers, find obscure books, or consult schedules.

Principal task for Nurse Mary Baker's aides was maintenance of the "Daybook," a record of student trips to the nurse. Name, arrival and departure and treatment were recorded in this journal.

According to Indiana law, aides could not administer any medication, could practice only simple first-aid procedures.

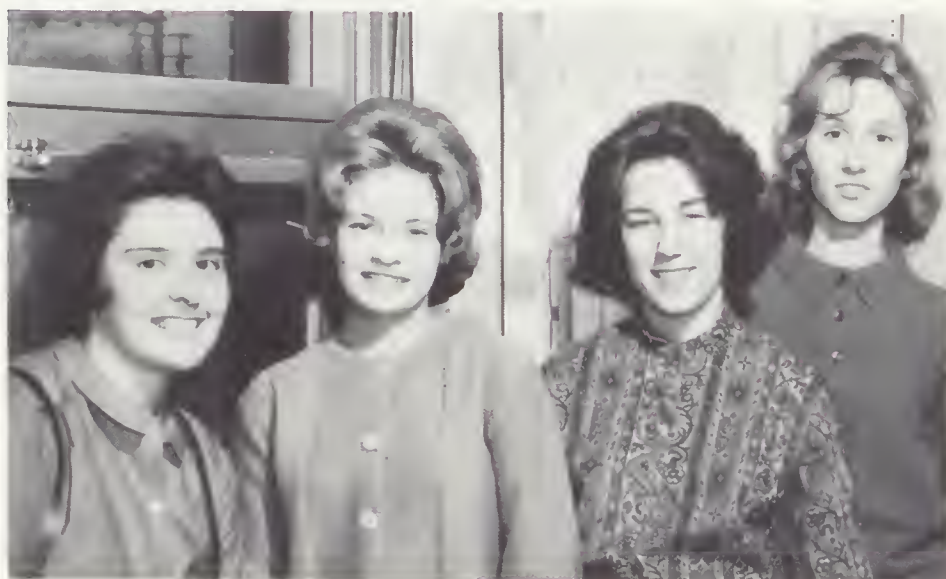

Manipulating time schedules for schoolwide inoculation also fell in the aide's line of duty.

Increased enrollment swamped counselors with work, created a need for student clerical help.

One hour a day aides typed, filed and carried on written correspondence with other high schools, colleges and universities.

Armed with glue, labels, cards, library aides repaired books and magazines, checked them out to students and processed new books.

Term paper rushers were indebted to pamphlet file, 51 magazine subscriptions, reserve book shelves, and 6053 volumes of 4931 books kept orderly by the junior librarians.

■ Focal point for GAA members was its first mother-daughter banquet, a catered dinner May 5.

Annual sock hop was again the school's first dance of the year.

Following a constitutional revision, Gavit chapter joined the state Girls Athletic Association.

March play-day, planned by frosh members, invited Clark, Morton, Tech and Hammond High GAAs to participate in basketball, volleyball and track. Tumbling, square dancing and trampoline antics were interrupted by lunch time in cafeteria.

Earning points for numerals, monograms or letter awards, members strove to become the outstanding senior honored by a permanent wall plaque in the girls gym office. Miss Jackie Bruno, co-sponsor, announced the winner at the May mother-daughter banquet.

■ Although diverse in nature, both Traffic Club and Drill Team saw their second year of service to the student body.

Due to construction, Traffic Club slowed its pace in its parking lot registration of cars driven to school by students, faculty.

But safety assemblies with emphatic movies and student panel discussions helped convey the idea of constant safety for all students.

Drill formations and flashes of purple-gold uniforms and white boots meant half-time entertainment by 28 Drill Team members at home football and basketball games.

To finance uniforms the girls sold football programs, football and basketball schedule pencils.

■ Epidemic of acute spirititis infected junior and senior high Pep Clubs as they spurred Gladiator forces. Junior high membership swelled to one of school's highest.

Members discovered spirititis was contagious when they chartered buses for Rensselaer, Lowell, River Forest games, initiated car caravan tradition for GHS-Tech grid game.

Club spelled out "loyalty" during Loyalty Week with activities for Lo(low) Day, Ya(yay) Day, LT (lettermen) Day and Y(why) Day.

Homeroom pep sign contest, won by Miss Carolyn Quinn's room, began sectional pep rally. With Drill Team and Lettermen, a sea of white-bloused waves roared "Go, Gavit!" on the sectional shore, as Gladiator mascot, Lenny Templeton, wielded the sword and shield.

Hammond greets new superintendent Hendrick,

HAMMOND SCHOOL BOARD—Sitting: Mrs. Margaret Allen, Mrs. Claire Stern. Standing: Mr. Charles Scott, Dr. Henry Eggers, Mr. Leo Bereolos, Dr. Joseph Hendrick, superintendent.

■ First day of school, Sept. 10, 1963, saw 1673 students enter GHS for its first year as a complete junior-senior high school. Ready to teach them was a faculty of 75.

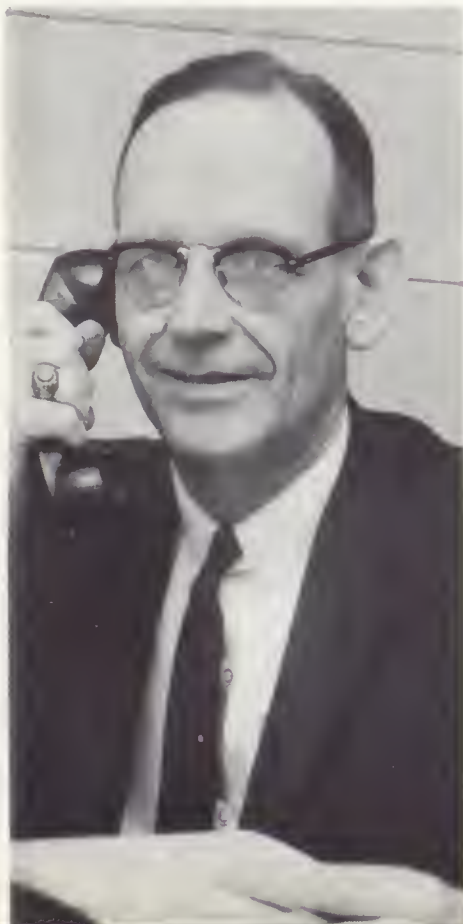

Because of the increased enrollment, school day stretched from early bird period at 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. More early bird classes were initiated the next semester when the enrollment jumped to 1768 with seven new teachers.

Cafeteria scheduled six half-hour lunches, and students could petition from study halls.

With Mr. R. B. Miller's retirement, school system welcomed Dr. Joseph Hendrick as new superintendent of Hammond public schools.

In November voters elected a school board consisting of incumbents Mrs. Claire Stern, Dr. Henry Eggers and Mr. Charles Scott. New electees were Mr. Edward Hudson and Mr. Ralph Potesta.

■ Gavit's first graduating class met '63-'64 in a frantic effort to polish grades, join activities.

Sneaking from garage to garage to insure secrecy, seniors used kleenex borrowed from juniors to erect their Loyalty Day float, "Slay the Indians."

Armed with magic markers and crayons, they auto-graphed pale yellow cords at the October senior cord dance and wore these skirts and slacks each Friday.

Black coffee sustained them through new electives, their winter dance, games, homework and jobs.

Senior pictures, graduation announcements and name cards, college admissions and board tests, club dues, season tickets, prom and Washington Trip forced seniors to eye want ads and drain bank accounts.

Following prom was a late May senior banquet. In a last week fling, after four years of leading and making a name, seniors revelled during senior week.

Solemn march of purple and gold caps and gowns June 10 saw class of '64 leave its pioneering behind.

Declaration of Independence brings memories of Washington-New York trip to seniors Zoe Ellen Black and Bob Swearingen. Upperclassmen toured nation's capital, Times Square, Greenwich Village and Statue of Liberty.

First seniors usher in tradition with cords, trip

Intent expressions on senior faces reflect their interest in economics and government, two required courses inaugurated this year.

Etching a message on Greg Clower's new cords, Judy McCrum whiffs a magic marker. Seniors first donned cords of official egg-shell white and pale yellow in October and had Cords Day every Friday. Pens popped out of purses and pockets at signing dance Oct. 11.

Junior by-words entail play, float, prom, badges

■ "Hey, Daisy Mae!" "Our Town' is great!" "Buy a booster badge!"

Sound familiar? No wonder. These were by-words for juniors as they sailed through the year.

They began with their float's winning Loyalty Day honors. In turn they honored Paul Kozubal (Li'l Abner) and Eileen Sullivan (Daisy Mae) at their Sadie Hawkins dance.

Selling booster badges and pen-nants was their continuous project.

"Midnight Mist" honored the first graduating class at the junior-senior prom May 16 in Schererville.

Open for auditioning by any high schooler was "Our Town." Juniors sponsored this thespianic effort Dec. 7 in the cafeteria.

In March National Merit tests taxed potential collegians' brains.

Sophomores allow singing, dancing as projects

■ Planning their class dance and a hootenanny kept sophomore officers busy leading more than 300 students.

In tune with current folk song craze, the class presented its hootenanny in November. Four groups from outside the school, plus the newly formed mixed ensemble, provided the lyricizing and guitar strumming for audience sing along.

That girls could wear slacks (because the audience sat on the gym floor) made the event unique

Class-sponsored dance, "April Showers" in the cafeteria, alternated popular songs with "oldies but goodies," requested by dancers.

Officers met during club periods, which came Wednesdays the first semester, Tuesdays the second.

Freshmen vend candy to sweeten HS induction

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS—Sitting: Miss Judy Pflum, Mr. Joseph Goodnight, sponsors. Standing: Kathy Dettterline, secretary; Sandra Cunningham, representative; Sue Weeks, vice president; Karen Brenman, representative; Bob Dockery, sergeant-at-arms; Margaret Gardner, representative; Linda Raykovich, treasurer; Dick Jones, president.

■ Attending early-bird classes, taking showers for gym classes, writing themes, solving algebra equations, translating foreign languages, burning the midnight oil and selling candy were all part of frosh initiation into high school hysteria.

Already anticipating the strain of their junior prom on the class piggy bank, the freshmen rang doorbells, haunted shopping areas and beleaguered schoolmates to vend mints, turtles and peanut butter creams. Sales totaled about 3000 boxes.

Pen and pencil sets, camera and records were awarded to high salesmen. Debbie Gatz sold the most candy to win a wrist watch. Miss Valerie Goluch's freshman advisery was treated to a pizza party for having the most sales as a homeroom.

Simulated concert in the park illuminates concert band, directed by Mr. Willard Jonas. JH musicians played regularly in the band.

Junior high boys take to the field for their physical education class, led by their teacher, Mr. Wayne Wagner.

Advertising and Index

Looking to local businessmen,
Gladiators sought jobs and spent money.
Upperclassmen searched for formals and tuxedos, as underclassmen splurged on records and hamburgers. Drug stores supplied needs for spring fever and winter colds.
No matter who the shopper,
or what he sought, downtown
Hammond and Woodmar offered anything and everything.

PTA leads trek to classrooms, breakfast table

Back-to-school Night found Mr. George Smith discussing gym curriculum with parents.

Doors open wide to parents in October at annual PTA Back-to-school Night. (Right).

Lending his assistance at the PTA Pancake Breakfast is Principal Lewis Witham.

Members of the younger set rival adults in eating capacity at the Pancake Breakfast.

Pride has many faces. It reflects in . . .

individual achievement, . . .

group effort.

It vibrates in every project . . .

echoes in all acts.

Gladiator spirit is written in faces...

Presenting the Futura

... meant losing books, pictures, ID's, copy, pens and minds ... chasing cat hairs ... dodging the track team ... hiding Beth's shoe in the typewriter ... cutting cake with a pica ruler ... picking on Bob ... receiving rubber band lessons ... everyone writing copy when Lavonne was sick ... going to speech lessons ... saying "please follow our crop marks" and "dirty old basketball player" ... using the space behind the blackboard for a dressing room ... watching the little kiddies ... having lab in Journalism II ... Carol losing five pounds in two days ... scrounging for goody money ... being impertinent ... Guber getting everyone in trouble ... writing a letter to Santa ... Miss Richter's superior strength sticking thumbtacks into the wall ... taking news quizzes ... drawing thumbnails and toe nails ... blaming Sophie ... driving to the printer ... making lists ... tracking up the clean windows ... remembering Mrs. Cunningham ... crying at picture-taking time ... watching Letty's speedy typing ... decorating the bulletin board ... and being early.
